We are writing as a group of parents and tax payers living in Alamo Heights Independent School District in San Antonio to state that we want your agencies to give local school districts the leeway to reopen schools in August as usual.

We want to see our children:

1. In school five full days a week
2. Free to change classes and transition to PE, library, specials, and recess
3. Eating lunch in the school cafeteria with peers
3. We want the district to provide bus transportation to and from school for all students that are currently eligible.

We are in agreement with the state that school districts should not require students to wear face masks and we want the state to stand firm on this decision.

Scientific evidence has shown that this virus is NOT posing serious risk of infection to children and we are NOT afraid to send our children back to school with as few restrictions as possible.

The state of Texas is proudly reopening for business and there is no evidence to support that our schools should be any different. Parents need to be able to work regular days and hours- hybrid schedules of in person and remote learning will not be sufficient and it is not in the best interest of children.

If the school districts are forced in to hybrid learning models due to the state reducing the maximum number of students in a classroom, there will be children all across the state of Texas left unattended on the Internet attempting to navigate their own online learning. This is unacceptable. Parents will be working and will be relying on grandparents (our most at risk population) for childcare.

The lack of physical activity, socialization and academic rigor will have adverse consequences on our children and their emotional and behavioral state will be negatively affected.

Districts need the funds and support from the state in order to offer a completely online learning model for students that need/want to remain at home. This will alleviate the in person number of students and allow for the parents, like us, that want to send their children to a physical classroom the ability to do so.

We thank you in advance for your time and the work you are each doing to provide what is best for the students of Texas!
